A panel discussion and small-group reflection for graduate students featuring Madinah Elamin and Karen Hale.

"What does social justice have to do with mentoring, and how is it relevant to my discipline? How can I integrate equity principles into my own experiences mentoring others? How are mentoring relationships sites to advance equity, diversity, and inclusion?"

Graduate students are invited to explore these questions and more while building their capacity as mentors.

Part
2

30 MARCH

10:30 - 11:30 AM
ZOOM

REGISTER IN ADVANCE:
go.rutgers.edu/mentoringforsj2

Mentoring perspectives from Douglass undergraduate students.

"What do undergrads have to say about their mentoring experiences? What do they look for in a mentor? What kind of mentorship is most affirming?"

Graduate students are invited to dialogue with current undergrads as they shape and develop their own approach to justice-oriented mentoring.
