

Susan N. Wilson NEW Leadership® New Jersey
2022 POLICY ACTION PROJECT

During NEW Leadership® New Jersey, you will be divided into small groups to work on the policy action project. This is a role-playing exercise that will require you to research a current public policy issue and work with your group to prepare a presentation. The topic for this year is the proposed bill to provide specific protections for hourly wage workers called the “Fair Workweek Act.” This bill proposes to create a set of rules and regulations to ensure certainty related to workers’ work schedules.

Details on the Legislation

Some states have begun implementing “Fair Workweek Acts” that require business owners of 250+ employees to inform hourly workers of their shift and expected working times two weeks prior to that date. In 2020, Assemblymembers Britnee Timberlake, Valerie Vainieri Huttle, William Moen, and Raj Mukherji (D) introduced NJ A2548, and Senators Nia Gill and Loretta Weinberg introduced NJ S921, the first versions of the “New Jersey Fair Workweek Act.” However, with the COVID-19 pandemic, the legislative session was interrupted, and the bill never made it past being referred to their respective labor committees in the NJ State Assembly and NJ State Senate. Currently, the newer version of the bill is being discussed in the State Assembly and State Senate and legislators are hopeful that this bill will be signed into law.

The bill, NJ A807, was introduced to the Assembly at the beginning of 2022 and has been referred to the Assembly Labor Committee. Its identical bill, NJ S362, was introduced to the NJ Senate on January 11, 2022, by Senator Nia Gill, Esq. and was referred to the Senate Labor Committee. The bill is described as an act concerning fair workweek employment standards, amending various parts of the statutory law, and supplementing Title 34 of the Revised Statutes. Bills A807/S362 entail the following:

- Employers must provide employees with their average expected work hours per week including the maximum and minimum amount beforehand, length and number of work shifts two weeks prior.
- For work schedule changes that occur without advance notice, employers must pay:
 - One hour of pay at regular hourly wage when an employee adds hours of work or changes the date, time, or location of a work shift
 - 0.5 times the regular hourly wage when an employer cancels or subtracts hours from a regular shift
- Employees can decline any work hours scheduled less than 12 hours after the end of the employees’ most recent shift
 - If they consent to take the shift, they will be granted 1.5 times their regular wage
- Employers must ensure that workers have a guaranteed minimum of 9 hours scheduled for every workweek
- Employers cannot discriminate or retaliate against employees based on the number of hours they work

Supporters of the bill argue, among many things, that enacting such procedures would ensure the protection of workers. They emphasize that predictable and guaranteed scheduling leads to better economic opportunities for workers and protects them from unfair management practices.

Opponents of this bill argue, among many things, that it is an attack on small businesses and would be an unfair uniform regulation on an entire business sector that has individual unique needs. They emphasize that hourly workers often seek these jobs in order to have flexible scheduling and that employees are more likely to seek schedule changes than their employers.

Details on the Policy Action Project

The action project will involve several skill-building aspects:

- Working in a group to reach consensus
- Researching a contemporary policy issue
- Identifying constituencies, coalition partners, opponents, and allies
- Crafting a message to articulate your group's position
- Preparing an issue brief or press release
- Making a presentation to encourage support for your position

Action Project Schedule:

- Sunday morning, June 12: You will receive your group assignment and meet your Action Project advisors.
- Sunday morning, June 12: Meet with your group and begin developing a message and strategy.
- Sunday afternoon, June 12: Consult with policy experts, work in groups
- Monday afternoon and evening, June 13: Complete your presentation

The Action project presentations will take place Tuesday morning, June 14th from 9:00 - 11:00 am at the Ruth Dill Johnson Crockett Building (162 Ryders Lane, New Brunswick, NJ 08901). Every person in the group must participate in the presentations on Tuesday morning.

The presentations will take two forms:

Press Conference on the steps of the State House in Trenton

A cohort of members from Groups 2 and 3 will participate in a press conference in support of and against the bill. Each group will have 10 minutes to present their statements at the press conference and 5 minutes to answer questions from the press. Members of the Eagleton Institute of Politics/CAWP staff will act as members of the press.

New Jersey Assembly Labor Committee Hearing

Group 1 will serve as members of the New Jersey Assembly Labor Committee. The committee is holding a hearing on bill A807. The Chair will open the hearing and preside over the session. A cohort of members from groups 2 and 3 will testify before the committee in favor and in opposition to bill A807. Each group will have 10 minutes to present their testimony and the committee will have 10 minutes to question each group. At the end of the session the committee will vote on whether to move the bill out of committee.

Susan N. Wilson NEW Leadership® New Jersey
Action Project Groups

Group 1 will serve as members of the Assembly Labor Committee.

You will be holding a hearing on bill A807. You will hear testimony from Groups 2 & 3. Every member of the committee must ask one question for each group testifying. At the end of the hearing, the committee will vote on the bill and each member will give a brief statement on the reasoning for your vote.

Group 2 is a coalition of organizations that support A807. Your group will first hold a press conference in support of passing the “Fair Workweek Act”. You will present a 10-minute press conference to encourage public support for your A807. You will be questioned for 5 minutes by members of the press. Later, at the legislative committee hearing, your group will have 10 minutes to present evidence and arguments in support of A807. Members of the Committee will have 10 minutes to ask questions of your group.

Group 3 is a coalition of organizations opposed to passing the “Fair Workweek Act” bill. Your group will first hold a press conference in opposition to A807. You will present a 10-minute press conference designed to convince the support to oppose A807. You will be questioned for 5 minutes by members of the press. Later, at the legislative committee hearing, your group will have 10 minutes to present evidence and arguments against the bill A807. Members of the Committee will have 10 minutes to ask questions of your group.

As you proceed with this exercise, please keep the following in mind:

The Action Project is a role-playing exercise. Each of you will portray an individual who has a stake in this issue. Think about the following questions: Who are you? Who do you represent? Why do you care about this issue? Why should decision-makers care about your opinion?

This is a learning experience. You may find that you are assigned to a group that takes a position or approach that you may not personally agree with. It is important, especially in politics, to understand the perspectives and strategies of your opposition.

Treat one another with respect. Although you may disagree with the opinions expressed by people on the other side of the issue, please remember to show respect for the individual.

Use the skills and contributions of each group member. As you conduct research, hone your message and organize your presentation, remember to use the skills of all the members of your group. Everyone has something to contribute. We often want to play to people’s strengths, but it is also important to encourage people to try something new and take risks.

Be creative! Use your imagination and have fun!

The Debate over A807 a.k.a “Fair Workweek Act”

On January 11, 2022, bill A807 was reintroduced to the NJ Assembly then referred to the Assembly Labor Committee. Its companion bill, S362 was introduced to the New Jersey State Senate and referred to the Senate Labor committee on the same day. For years workers in industries such as retail and foodservice have complained of inconsistent and random work hours that hinder their ability to live a well-rounded and healthy life. Meanwhile, employers, particularly small businesses, have argued that the regulations of these bills are too stringent and lead to overhead costs and undue stress on managers and supervisors. Several cities have taken the initiative to implement this policy to protect workers’ rights such as:

- Philadelphia, Pennsylvania
- New York City, New York
- Chicago, Illinois
- The state of Oregon
- Seattle, Washington

Supporters of the “Fair Workweek Act” argue that implementing a bill that protects workers from unreliable and taxing labor is instrumental in protecting women’s rights and socioeconomic mobility. They believe that this bill will implement (1) predictable workweeks their families can count on which will result in predictable work schedules. It will also mandate (2) the opportunity to work enough hours to make ends meet (3) healthy workweeks that are sustainable (4) flexibility for workers to be there for their families. Due to these unpredictable work schedules women are often left on the outskirts of socio-economic mobility. Unable to find last minute childcare and an ensured range of income, women’s livelihood has often been left in the hands of their employer. Not only do these constantly changing working hours impede many workers’ personal lives, it also prevents them from attending school and usually overworks them. Many workers account to being responsible for the closing and opening shift leaving them with less than 5 hours to sleep and eat.

Opponents of the “Fair Workweek Act” argue that implementing this bill will be a detriment to New Jersey’s current economic strength forcing both small businesses and employees to leave the state. In particular, they believe this bill will (1) force small businesses to close due to increased restrictions, (2) create an unmanageable workload for managers in such occupations, (3) will create an unnecessary financial burden on businesses, and (4) take away the inherent flexibility that most workers in these jobs rely on.

Bill A807: “Fair Workweek Act”

General Summary of the Bill: New Jersey’s Fair Workweek Act aims to establish more predictable workweek schedules for employees. Upon hire, employees are to submit their desired number of weekly hours and availability. It will require that each employer will provide their employees with an estimate of their work schedules which include: 1) minimum and maximum hours per week, 2) minimum length of working shifts, 3) the number of working shifts, 4) and days/shifts an employee will not be scheduled to work. This bill also mandates that employees have the right to make work schedule requests including days/times not to work, hours/days/locations to work, fewer hours, and for a consistent schedule or the minimum number of weekly hours without employer retaliation. Before the initial start of employment, employers must provide employees with written work schedules that run through the last date of the current posted schedule. Employees must be informed of their schedule 2 weeks (14 days) prior to that date. For work schedule pay that occurs without advance notice employers must compensate their employees with 1.5 hours’ worth of pay. Employees must also be given a 12-hour break in between shifts. If the employee is scheduled within twelve hours of their most recent shift, they may decline that shift. If employers need them to work during that time, they must compensate them with 1.5 hours’ worth of pay. This bill also requires employers to first increase the shifts of the employees they already have before hiring new employees for the same role.

Background of Bill: This year, Assemblywoman Britnee Timberlake has introduced A807 to the Assembly. Also known as the “Fair Workweek Act,” A807 ensures protection for workers from unpredictable schedules to provide structure for their lives. The bill was introduced to the Assembly and has been referred to the Assembly Labor Committee. Its identical bill, S362, was introduced to the NJ Senate on January 11, 2022, by Senator Nia Gill, Esq. and was referred to the Senate Labor Committee.

Goals of Bill:

- This bill seeks to implement these specific provisions to protect employees:
 - Providing a clear set work schedule week two weeks prior to the start of the new schedule
 - Providing employees with the following estimates at the time of hire:
 - Average number of work hours the employee can expect per week
 - Minimum/Maximum hours to expect per week
 - Minimum length of shifts to expect
 - Number of days, shifts, and amount of time employee can expect to work and not expect to work
 - Allowing employees to make requests in good faith to adjust their work schedules
 - Prohibiting employer retaliation when employees cannot take on additional shifts
 - Allowing employees to submit their desired number of weekly hours and availability
 - A 12-hour break between shifts, employees can decline work during this time
 - Providing 1.5 times the regular wage if employee consents to a shift during the 12-hour period
 - Fair Pay for changes made to work schedule

- 1 hour of pay when employer changes the date, time, or location of an employee's shift if no shift hours are lost
 - 0.5 times regular hourly wage for unworked hours if the employer cancels or subtracts hours from a shift
- The "Fair Workweek Act" aims to ensure a family-sustaining work week which essentially mandates predictable workweeks that families can count on, opportunities to work enough hours to make ends meet, healthy workweeks that are sustainable, flexibility for workers to be there for their families.

Bill A807 Statement/Summary:

This bill, the "New Jersey Fair Workweek Act," provides that employees may request a change to their work schedules without fear of retaliation or adverse action and requires that employers consider these requests in good faith. The bill also requires employers to provide more predictable and stable schedules for employees in certain low-wage occupations. For the purposes of this bill, "employer" is defined as any employer that employs 250 or more employees. The bill requires an employee, upon hire, to provide an employer with a written request of the employee's preferred schedule; and requires the employer to provide a good faith estimate of the employee's projected schedule. An employee may make requests for a change to the schedule, and the employer is required to work in good faith to accommodate these requests if possible. The bill requires an employer to provide, transmit, and post notice of an employee's schedule at least 14 days prior to the start of the work period that schedule covers. The employer is required to give prior notice to affected employees of any revision of the posted schedule and post the revised schedule within 24 hours. An employee is allowed to decline to work any shifts that are not posted in such a manner. The bill provides for employees to receive predictability pay for any work schedule change that occurs after the above mentioned advanced notice has been provided. Under the provisions of the bill, an employee may decline any shifts scheduled less than twelve hours after the end of the employee's most recent shift. Any shifts worked by the employee within 12 hours of their most recent shift shall be compensated with rest shortfall pay at one-and-a-half times the employee's normal rate. The bill requires an employer to increase the shifts of existing employees, within the limits of the law, before hiring new employees capable of performing the same tasks. The bill provides for an employer to keep records detailing its compliance with these requirements, and for those records to be accessible to the employees concerned. The bill makes it an unlawful employment practice for any employer to interfere with, restrain, or deny the existence or the right to exercise, any right of an employee as set forth in the bill. Under the bill, it is unlawful for any employer to discharge, threaten to discharge, demote, suspend, reduce work hours of, or take any other adverse employment action against any employee in retaliation for exercising the rights of an employee under the bill or opposing any practice made unlawful by the bill. The bill provides that, in respect to employees whose work requires substantially similar skills, duties, and responsibility, an employer shall not discriminate against any employee on the basis of their hours worked. The bill provides, in cases where the employee does not initiate a civil action under current law, for the Commissioner of Labor and Workforce Development or the Attorney General to bring a civil action against a covered employer in violation or alleged to be in violation of the bill or other State wage and hour laws. Under the bill, an employee or employee representative may, after providing the commission an opportunity to investigate the complaint, bring a civil action on behalf of the State, but the right of the employee to bring a civil action under the bill terminates if the commissioner initiates an enforcement action regarding the complaint. The bill requires an employer to pay an employee nine times the employee's regular wage, or the minimum wage, whichever is larger, in retention pay for every 7-day work period; with an employee's normal pay or paid time-off counting toward compliance with this requirement. The bill requires every employer subject to its provisions to post and keep conspicuously posted, in the establishment and location where notices or postings to employees and applicants for employment are customarily posted, a notice setting forth the pertinent provisions of the bill. The bill does not apply to collective bargaining agreements if the agreement waives specific provisions that are covered within the bill, so long as the agreement addresses the topic of employee scheduling. The bill amends P.L.1965, c.173 (C.34:11-4.10) to add certain penalties for labor violations. The bill amends P.L.2019, c.212 (C.34:11-58.2) to include this bill under prohibited retaliations against employees. The bill amends R.S.34:11-57 and P.L.2009, c.194 (C.34:1A-1.11) to include itself under the definition of "State wage and hour laws," thus allowing for penalties imposed under other state wage and hour laws to apply to violations of this bill. Finally, the bill amends R.S.43:21-5 to prevent absences caused by employer violations of its provisions from affecting employee eligibility for unemployment compensation.

For an employee jointly employed by a covered employer and a labor contractor, as defined in section 9 of P.L.2019, c.212 (C.34:11-58.2), the time of hire shall be the first day of the employee’s placement with the covered employer, provided that the employee has not performed work for the covered employer during the previous thirty days.

“Bona fide business reason” means:

- (1) A covered employer action required to comply with a law, statute, ordinance, code, governmental executive order, or rule;
- (2) A significant and quantifiable burden of additional costs to the covered employer;
- (3) A significant and quantifiable insufficiency of work during the periods the employee proposes to work; and
- (4) A significant and quantifiable detrimental effect on the covered employer’s ability to meet organizational demands, including:

“Covered employer” means an employer that employs workers at one or more covered establishments and employs 250 or more employees worldwide regardless of where those employees perform work, including but not limited to chain establishments or franchises associated with a chain of establishments, or network of franchises, that employ 250 or more employees in aggregate. In determining the number of employees, all employees including but not limited to those employed on a full-time, part-time, seasonal, or temporary basis, shall be counted, including workers placed with the covered employer through a labor contractor, provided that where the number of employees fluctuates, the number of employees shall be determined for the current calendar year based upon the average number of employees employed per week during the preceding calendar year, and provided further that in determining the number of employees employed by or for a chain business, the total number of employees in that group of establishments shall be counted.

“Covered establishment” means a mercantile establishment, hospitality establishment, restaurant establishment, warehouse establishment, or other establishment of the business which owns or operates any of these establishments.

“Restaurant establishment” means any eating or drinking place which prepares and offers food or beverages for human consumption either in any of its premises or by such services as catering, banquets, box lunch or curbside service and which is part of a chain of 30 or more restaurant establishments worldwide, or is operated under a franchise for which the total worldwide number of restaurant establishments owned or operated by the franchisor and by all franchisees of the franchisor, or by any entity that directly or indirectly owns or operates the franchisor, is 30 or more.

“Shift” means the consecutive hours a covered employer requires an employee to work or to be on-call to work, provided that breaks totaling two hours or less shall not be considered an interruption of consecutive hours.

“Work schedule change” means any covered employer-initiated modification to the employee's work schedule, including but not limited to: the addition or reduction of hours; cancellation of a work shift or portion of a work shift; a change in the date, time, or location of a work shift; or scheduling the employee for an on-call work shift for which the employee does not need to report to work.

“Written” or “writing” means a printed or printable communication in physical or electronic format including a communication transmitted through email, text message, or a computer system, or is otherwise sent and maintained electronically.

2. (New section) a. Upon hiring an employee, a covered employer shall obtain a written statement of the employee's desired number of weekly work hours and the days and times the employee is available to work. The covered employer shall provide written notification to the employee that this written statement may be modified in writing by the employee at any time.

b. At the time of hire, a covered employer shall provide each employee with a written estimate of the employee's work schedule. The employer shall revise the estimate when there is a significant change to the employee's work schedule due to changes in the employee's availability or to the employer's business needs. The estimate is not a contractual offer binding the employer, but an estimate made without a basis in good faith is a violation of this section. The estimate shall contain:

- (1) The average number of work hours the employee can expect to work each week;
- (2) The minimum and maximum numbers of work hours the employee can expect to work each week;
- (3) The minimum length of shifts that the employee can expect to work; and
- (4) The number of days, the amount of time, and the number of shifts that the employee can expect to work, and days of the week and times or shifts on which the employee will not be scheduled to work.

c. A covered employer does not violate the requirements of this section when an employee's average weekly work hours significantly exceed the number provided in the good faith estimate if the employer has a bona fide business reason and has made every effort to schedule the employee for the employee's desired number of weekly work hours.

d. At the time of hire and thereafter, the employee has the right to make work schedule requests including but not limited to:

- (1) Requests not to be scheduled for work shifts during certain days or times or at certain establishments;
- (2) Requests for certain hours, days, or locations of work;
- (3) Requests for more or fewer work hours; and
- (4) Requests to be scheduled consistently for a specified or minimum number of weekly work hours.

The covered employer shall engage in an interactive process to discuss such employee requests, but may grant or deny the request for a bona fide business reason that is not unlawful.

e. The covered employer shall not retaliate against an employee, or take any other adverse action as defined in section 1 of P.L.1965, c.173 (C.34:11-4.1) for making requests subject to subsection a. or d. of this section, nor make any opportunities including, but not limited to promotion, full-time employment, or training contingent upon an employee's waiver of the right to make work schedule requests.

3. (New section) a. Not later than the time of commencement of employment, a covered employer shall provide the employee with a written work schedule that runs through the last date of the currently posted work schedule. Thereafter, the employer shall provide written notice of work hours pursuant to subsection b. of this section no later than 14 days prior to the first day of any new schedule. Nothing in this section shall be construed to prohibit a covered employer from providing greater advance notice of employee's work schedules or changes in schedules than that required by this section.

b. Written notice of the work schedule shall be provided by posting the work schedule in a conspicuous place at the workplace that is readily accessible and visible to all employees and by transmitting the posted work schedule to each employee. Such transmission may be done electronically only if electronic means are regularly used to communicate scheduling information to employees. The work schedule shall identify all employees currently employed at that worksite, regardless of whether they are scheduled to work any hours in the schedule.

c. A covered employer shall provide to any affected employee written notice of any revision of a work schedule posted pursuant to subsection b. of this section as promptly as possible and prior to the change taking effect. The covered employer shall post and transmit the revised written work schedule to reflect any work schedule changes within 24 hours of making the change.

d. An employee may decline, without retaliation or adverse action, to work any hours not included in the posted work schedule. If the employee provides informed consent to work such hours, the consent shall be recorded in writing.

4. (New section) a. For each work schedule change that occurs after the advance notice required by section 3 of this act, a covered employer shall pay to any affected employee predictability pay at the following rates:

(1) One hour of pay at the employee's regular hourly wage for each instance when the covered employer adds hours of work or changes the date, time, or location of the employee's work shift without loss of hours; and

(2) One-half times the employee's regular hourly wage for any scheduled hours the employee does not work when the covered employer cancels or subtracts hours from a regular or on-call shift, provided that the employee shall, for any shift for which the hours of work were reduced, be paid, in combined wages and predictability pay, not less than the equivalent of four hours of pay at the employee's regular hourly wage.

b. A covered employer is not required to pay predictability pay under this section or to obtain written consent pursuant to subsection d. of section 3 of this act when:

(1) An employee requests and is granted a shift change in writing, including but not limited to the use of sick leave, vacation leave, or other leave policies offered by the employer; or

(2) A schedule change is the result of a mutually agreed upon shift trade or coverage arrangement between employees, subject to any existing employer policy regarding required conditions for employees to exchange shifts.

A failure to make any payment required by this section in the manner required by this section shall be a violation of this act and be subject to the remedies provided by this act and other applicable provisions of State wage and hour laws as defined in R.S.34:11-57, including remedies provided by section 10 of P.L.1965, c.173 (C.34:11-4.10).

5. (New section) a. An employee may decline, without retaliation or adverse action, any work hours that are scheduled or otherwise occur less than 12 hours after the end of the employee's most recent shift. The employee may consent to work such shifts if the consent is provided in writing for each shift or for multiple shifts, and the consent may be revoked by the employee in writing at any time.

b. The covered employer shall provide rest shortfall pay to the employee at one and one-half times the employee's regular rate of pay for any hours the employee works that occur less than twelve hours after the end of the employee's most recent shift.

A failure to make any payment required by this section in the manner required by this section shall be a violation of this act and be subject to the remedies provided by this act and other applicable provisions of State wage and hour laws as defined in R.S.34:11-57, including remedies provided by section 10 of P.L.1965, c.173 (C.34:11-4.10).

6. (New section) a. Before hiring any new employees, including but not limited to, hiring through a labor contractor or an applicant pool, a covered employer shall make every effort to schedule its existing employees for the desired number of weekly work hours identified in the written statements provided pursuant to subsection a. of section 2 of this act, provided that the employer may hire a new employee if existing employees lack, and cannot obtain with reasonable training, the qualifications necessary to perform the work. This section shall not be construed to require any employer to schedule employees to work hours required to be paid at an overtime rate under State or federal law.

b. When a covered employer fails to offer an existing employee opportunities to work the employee's desired number of weekly work hours before hiring a new employee, the existing employee shall be provided retention pay at the employee's regular hourly rate for hours worked by a newly hired employee that occurred within the existing employee's written availability.

A failure to make any payment required by this section in the manner required by this section shall be a violation of this act and be subject to the remedies provided by this act and other applicable provisions of State wage and hour laws as defined in R.S.34:11-57, including remedies provided by section 10 of P.L.1965, c.173 (C.34:11-4.10).

7. (New section) a. Except as provided in subsection b. of this section, a covered employer shall pay each employee minimum weekly pay not less than an amount nine times the employee's regular hourly wage, or the minimum wage in effect pursuant to subsection a. of section 5 of P.L.1966, c.113 (C.34:11-56a4), whichever is more, during any 7-day period. Wages paid for hours worked or paid leave, including paid benefit time during the 7-day pay period, may be used to meet the covered employer's obligation under this section.

b. An employee who, with the covered employer's consent, does not work or takes unpaid leave during a particular week may waive the requirement of subsection a. of this section, if the employee designates in writing the specific week or weeks for which minimum weekly pay is waived.

Discrimination includes, but is not limited to, providing similarly situated employees with different:

- (1) hourly wages;
- (2) eligibility to accrue covered employer-provided paid and unpaid time off and other benefits; or
- (3) promotion opportunities or other conditions of employment.

b. This section shall not be construed to prohibit differences in hourly wages or other conditions of employment for reasons other than the number of hours the employee is scheduled to work or expected duration of employment, or the hours, days, or times indicated pursuant to subsection a. of section 2 of this act. For the purposes of this act, the date of hire, a merit system, or a system which measures earnings by quantity per hour or quality of production shall be acceptable basis for differences in hourly wages or other conditions of employment.

9. (New section) Each covered employer shall post and keep posted, on the premises of the covered employer in conspicuous places where notices to employees and applicants for employment are customarily posted, a notice, to be prepared or approved by the commissioner, setting forth the rights and privileges provided under this act, stating that retaliation or adverse action against employees for exercising these rights is prohibited, and providing such other information as the department may require. - (11) any written consent required by this act.

Covered employers shall retain the records for a period of six years, and the records shall be open to inspection by the commissioner or the commissioner's authorized representative at any reasonable time. Any covered employer that hinders or delays the commissioner or the commissioner's authorized representative in the performance of their duties in the enforcement of this act, or fails to make, keep, or preserve, any record as required under the provisions of this act, or falsifies the record, or refuses to make any the record or other information required for the proper enforcement of this act accessible to the commissioner or the commissioner's authorized representative upon demand, shall be presumed to have violated this act, absent clear and convincing evidence otherwise, and be subject to penalties provided by P.L.1965, c.173 (C.34:11-4.1 et seq.).

b. Upon request by any employee, and in accordance with the rules of the department, a covered employer shall provide the employee with records of good faith estimates of work schedules, employee's desired work hours, written work schedules for any previous week worked in the past six years, including any modifications thereto, transmission of work schedules, notifications of modifications thereto, and any written consent required by this act.

(1) paragraph (1) of subsection a. of section 4 of this act, to which the covered employer shall refer on the wage statement or pay stub as "Excess Time Predictability Pay";

(3) subsection b. of section 5 of this act, to which the covered employer shall refer on the wage statement or pay stub as "Rest Shortfall Pay";

(4) subsection b. of section 6 of this act, to which the covered employer shall refer on the wage statement or pay stub as "Minimum Weekly Pay Adjustment";

(d) Section 5: $500;

(e) Section 6: $500;

(f) Section 8: $500; and

(g) Section 7: $300.

The amounts authorized by this section shall be imposed on a per employee and per instance basis for each violation.

b. The department or the Attorney General may bring a civil action in a court of competent jurisdiction against a covered employer alleged to be in violation or to have violated this act. For violations of this act, the remedies specified in this section may be recovered through such action.

c. For violations of this act, the remedies specified in this section may be recovered through a civil action brought on behalf of the department in a court of competent jurisdiction by any employee allegedly harmed by a violation of this act, regardless of whether that person has received full or partial relief, or by a representative nonprofit or labor organization designated by said employee pursuant to regulations established by the department, pursuant to the following procedures:

(2) If the department decides to investigate the alleged violation, it shall notify the employee or representative organization of its decision within 65 calendar days of the postmark date of the notice provided for in subsection (1) of subsection c. of this section. Within 60 calendar days of that decision, the department shall investigate the alleged violation and take any enforcement action authorized by law. If the department, during the course of its investigation, determines that additional time is necessary to complete the investigation, it may extend the time by not more than 60 additional calendar days and shall notify the employee or representative organization of the extension. If the department determines that no enforcement action will be taken, it shall notify the employee or representative organization of that decision within five business days.

(3) The employee or representative organization may commence a civil action pursuant to section 11 of this act if the department determines that no enforcement action will be taken, or if no enforcement action is taken by the department within the time limits prescribed by paragraph (2) of subsection c. of this section; or if the department fails to provide timely notifications.

(4) No action may be brought under this section alleging the violation of any section of this act for which the department, on the same facts, initiates an enforcement action, or for minimal violations of section 9 of this act. The department may intervene in an action brought under this section and proceed with all claims in the action as of right within thirty days after the commencement of the action, or for good cause, as determined by the court, after the expiration of the thirty-day period.

(5) Penalties recovered pursuant to paragraph (3) of subsection a. of this section shall be distributed as follows: 70 percent to the department for enforcement of this act, with 25 percent of that amount reserved for grants to community organizations for outreach and education about employee rights under this act, pursuant to regulations adopted by the department; and 30 percent to the employees or representative organization to be distributed to the employees affected by the violation, including a service award that reflects the burdens and risks assumed by the employee or representative organization in bringing the action.

(6) No covered employer or his or her agent or any other person shall retaliate in any manner, including but not limited to taking adverse action as defined in section 1 of P.L.1965, c.173 (C.34:11-4.1) or threaten to retaliate, against an employee because the employee has, or is believed to have, participated in or cooperated with an action under this section. Any person who believes he or she has been subject to retaliation or adverse action or a threat of retaliation or adverse action in violation of this subsection (6) of subsection c. of section 11 of this act may bring an action under P.L.1965, c.173 (C.34:11-4.1 et seq.). Protections of this section shall apply to any person who brings such action mistakenly but in good faith.

(7) An action under this section may allege multiple violations that have affected different employees aggrieved by the same defendant and may seek injunctive and declaratory relief that the department would be entitled to seek. No action brought pursuant to this act shall be required to meet the requirements of Rule 4:32-1 of the New Jersey Rules of Civil Procedure. Any person that prevails in an action under this section, regardless of whether the department has intervened in that action, shall be entitled to an award of reasonable attorney's fees and costs. The right to bring an action under this section shall not be impaired by any private contract.

d. The department, for the purpose of supporting the enforcement of P.L.1965, c.173 (C.34:11-4.1 et seq.), may contract with community-based, labor, educational, and legal services organizations to disseminate information to workers concerning the protections afforded by this act and communicate with the department regarding alleged violations of this act.

f. The provisions of this section shall not apply to any civil action brought by an employee or an agent or representative of the employee pursuant to section 3 of this act or subsection c. of section 10 of P.L.1965, c.173 (C.34:11-4.10).

12. (New section) The provisions of this act shall not apply to any employee covered by a valid collective bargaining agreement, if those provisions are expressly waived in that collective bargaining agreement and the agreement addresses employee scheduling by providing employees with predictable, stable hours into which employees have input.

13. (New section) The commissioner shall adopt rules and regulations pursuant to the "Administrative Procedure Act," P.L.1968, c.40 (C.52:14B-1 et seq.) to effectuate the purposes of this act.

14. (New section) This act shall be known and may be cited as the "New Jersey Fair Workweek Act."

b. "Employee" means any person suffered or permitted to work by an employer, except that independent contractors and subcontractors shall not be considered employees.

c. “Wages” means the direct monetary compensation for labor or services rendered by an employee, where the amount is determined on a time, task, piece, or commission basis excluding any form of supplementary incentives and bonuses which are calculated independently of regular wages and paid in addition thereto.

d. “Commissioner” means the Commissioner of Labor and Workforce Development.

e. “Adverse action” includes threatening, intimidating, disciplining, discharging, demoting, suspending, or harassing an employee; assigning an employee to a lesser position in terms of job classification, job security, or other condition of employment; reducing the hours or pay of an employee or denying the employee additional hours; informing another employer that an employee has engaged in activities protected by P.L. , c. (C.)(pending before the Legislature as this bill); and discriminating against the employee, including actions or threats related to perceived immigration status or work authorization.

17. Section 10 of P.L.1965, c.173 (C.34:11–4.10) is amended to read as follows:

10. a. Any employer who knowingly fails to pay the full amount of wages to an employee agreed to or required by, or in the manner required by, the provisions of article 1 of chapter 11 of Title 34 of the Revised Statutes and all acts supplementing that article (R.S.34:11–2 et al.), or who knowingly violates any other provision of P.L.1965, c.173 (C.34:11–4.1 et seq.), or who knowingly violates any provision of P.L. , c. _(C.)(pending before the Legislature as this bill), or who takes a retaliatory or adverse action against an employee by discharging or in any other manner discriminating against the employee because the employee has made a complaint to that employee's employer, to the commissioner, or to that employee's authorized representative, that the employer has not paid the employee the full amount of wages agreed upon or required by, and in the manner required by, the provisions of article 1 of chapter 11 of Title 34 of the Revised Statutes and all acts supplementing that article (R.S.34:11-2 et al.), or has violated any provision of P.L. , c. (C.)(pending before the Legislature as this bill), or because the employee has caused to be instituted or is about to cause to be instituted any proceeding under or related to that article or those acts, or because that employee has testified or is about to testify in any proceeding under or relating to that article or those acts, or because the employee has informed any employee of the employer about rights under State laws regarding wages and hours worked shall be guilty of a disorderly persons offense and, upon conviction for a first violation, shall be punished by a fine of not less than $500 nor more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not less than 10 nor more than 90 days or by both the fine and imprisonment and, upon conviction for a second or subsequent violation, be punished by a fine of not less than $1,000 nor more than $2,000 or by imprisonment for not less than 10 nor more than 100 days or by both the fine and imprisonment. Each week, in any day of which any violation of this act article 1 of chapter 11 of Title 34 of the Revised Statutes and all acts supplementing that article (R.S.34:11-2 et al.) continues shall constitute a separate and distinct offense. In the case of a discharge or other discriminatory action against the employee which is in violation of this subsection or of P.L. , c. (C.)(pending before the Legislature as this bill), the employer shall also be required to offer reinstatement in employment to the discharged employee and to correct the discriminatory action, and also to pay to the employee, in full, all wages lost as a result of that discharge or discriminatory action, plus liquidated damages equal to not more than 200 percent of the wages due, under penalty of contempt proceedings. Taking an adverse action, as defined in section 1 of P.L.1965, c.173 (C.34:11-4.1), against an employee within ninety days of the employee filing a complaint with the commissioner or a claim or action being brought by or on behalf of the employee in a court of competent jurisdiction for a violation of article 1 of chapter 11 of Title 34 of the Revised Statutes, all acts supplementing that article (R.S.34:11-2 et al.), and any provision of P.L. , c. (C.)(pending before the Legislature as this bill), shall be considered presumptive evidence that the employer's action was knowingly taken in retaliation or adverse action against the employee. In the case of seasonal employment that ended before the close of the 90 calendar day period, the presumption also applies if the employer fails to rehire a former employee at the next opportunity for work in the same position. An employee complaint or other communication need not make explicit reference to any section or provision of any State law regarding wages and hours worked to trigger the protections of this section. The protections of this section shall apply to any person who alleges violations of this act mistakenly but in good faith.

b. As an alternative to or in addition to any other sanctions provided by law for violations of P.L.1965, c.173 (C.34:11-4.1 et seq.), when the Commissioner of Labor and Workforce Development finds that an employer has violated any provision of that act or of P.L. , c. (C.)(pending before the Legislature as this bill), or taken any retaliatory action against the employee in violation of subsection a. of this section, the commissioner is authorized to assess and collect administrative penalties, up to a maximum of $250 for a first violation and up to a maximum of $500 for each subsequent violation, specified in a schedule of penalties to be promulgated as a rule or regulation by the commissioner in accordance with the "Administrative Procedure Act," P.L.1968, c.410 (C.52:14B-1 et seq.). When determining the amount of the penalty imposed because of a violation, the commissioner shall consider factors which include the history of previous violations by the employer, the seriousness of the violation, the good faith of the employer and the size of the employer's business. No administrative penalty shall be levied pursuant to this section unless the Commissioner of Labor and Workforce Development provides the alleged violator with notification of the violation and of the amount of the penalty by certified mail and an opportunity to request a hearing before the commissioner or his designee within 15 days following the receipt of the notice. If a hearing is requested, the commissioner shall issue a final order upon such hearing and a finding that a violation has occurred. If no hearing is requested, the notice shall become a final order upon expiration of the 15-day period. Payment of the penalty is due when a final order is issued or when the notice becomes a final order. Any penalty imposed pursuant to this section may be recovered with costs in a summary proceeding commenced by the commissioner pursuant to the "Penalty Enforcement Law of 1999," P.L.1999, c.274 (C.2A:58-10 et seq.). Any sum collected as a fine or penalty pursuant to this section shall be applied toward enforcement and administration costs of the Division of Workplace Standards in the Department of Labor and Workforce Development.

c. If any employer fails to pay the full amount of wages to an employee agreed to or required by, or in the manner required by, the provisions of article 1 of chapter 11 of Title 34 of the Revised Statutes and all acts supplementing that article (R.S.34:11-2 et al.), or fails to pay any amounts required by sections, 4, 5, 6, or 7 of P.L. , c. (C.)(pending before the Legislature as this bill), in the manner required by those sections, the employee may recover in a civil action the full amount of any wages due, or any wages lost because of any retaliatory action taken in violation of subsection a. of this section, plus an amount of liquidated damages equal to not more than 200 percent of the wages lost or of the wages due, together with costs and reasonable attorney's fees as are allowed by the court, except that if there is an agreement of the employee to accept payment of the unpaid wages supervised by the commissioner pursuant to section 9 of P.L.1965, c. 173 (C.34:11-4.9) or R.S.34:11- 58, the liquidated damages shall be equal to not more than 200 percent of wages that were due prior to the supervised payment. The payment of liquidated damages shall not be required for a first violation by an employer if the employer shows to the satisfaction of the court that the act or omission constituting the violation was an inadvertent error made in good faith and that the employer had reasonable grounds for believing that the act or omission was not a violation, and the employer acknowledges that the employer violated the law and pays the amount owed within 30 days of notice of the violation. In a case of retaliation or adverse action against an employee in violation of the provisions of subsection a. of this section, the employer shall also be required to offer reinstatement in employment to the discharged employee and take other actions as needed to correct the retaliatory action. For purposes of this subsection, an employer taking an adverse action against an employee within ninety days of the employee filing a complaint with the commissioner, or a claim or action being brought by or on behalf of the employee in a court of competent jurisdiction, for a violation of provisions of article 1 of chapter 11 of Title 34 of the Revised Statutes and all acts supplementing that article (R.S.34:11-2 et al.) and P.L. , c. (C.

(pending before the Legislature as this bill), shall raise a presumption that the employer's action was taken in retaliation against the employee, which presumption may be rebutted only by clear and convincing evidence that the action was taken for other, permissible, reasons. In the case of seasonal employment that ended before the close of the 90 calendar day period, the presumption also applies if the employer fails to rehire a former employee at the next opportunity for work in the same position. The protections of this section shall apply to any person who mistakenly but in good faith alleges violations of P.L. , c. (C.)(pending before the Legislature as this bill). Any agreement by the employee to work for, or accept, wages paid which are less than the amount agreed to or required by law, or paid in a manner other than that required by article 1 of chapter 11 of Title 34 of the Revised Statutes and all acts supplementing that article (R.S.34:11-2 et al.), and P.L. , c. (C.)(pending before the Legislature as this bill), shall be no defense to the action. The employee shall be entitled to maintain the action for and on behalf of other similarly situated employees, or designate an agent or representative to maintain the action for and on behalf of all similarly situated employees. The employee may bring the action for all appropriate relief, including reinstatement, the payment of damages and the recovery of lost wages or unpaid wages pursuant to this section in the Superior Court. Upon the request of any employee not paid the full wages agreed upon or required by law and in the manner required by the provisions of article 1 of chapter 11 of Title 34 of the Revised Statutes, all acts supplementing that article (R.S.34:11-2 et al.), and P.L. , c. (C.)(pending before the Legislature as this bill), the commissioner may take an assignment of the wage claim in trust for the assigning employee and may bring any legal action necessary to collect the claim, and the employer shall be required to pay to the employee the unpaid wages and liquidated damages equal to not more than 200 percent of the amount of the unpaid wages and pay to the commissioner the costs and reasonable attorney's fees as determined by the court. The payment of liquidated damages shall not be required for a first violation by an employer if the employer shows to the satisfaction of the court that the act or omission constituting the violation was an inadvertent error made in good faith and that the employer had reasonable grounds for believing that the act or omission was not a violation, and the employer acknowledges that the employer violated the law and pays the amount owed within 30 days of notice of the violation.

19. Section 9 of P.L.2019, c.212 (C.34:11-58.2) is amended to read as follows:

9. a. A client employer and a labor contractor providing workers to the client employer shall be subject to joint and several liability and shall share civil legal responsibility for any violations of the provisions of State wage and hour laws or violations of the provisions of section 10 of P.L.1999, c.90 (C.2C:40A-2) regarding compliance with State wage and hour laws, including compliance with P.L. , c. (C.) (pending before the Legislature as this bill, including provisions regarding retaliatory actions against employees for exercising their rights under any of those laws, and both may be subject to any remedy provided for violations of those laws. A client employer shall not shift to the labor contractor any legal duties or liabilities under the provisions of the "Worker Health and Safety Act," P.L.1965, c.154 (C.34:6A-1 et seq.) or "The Worker and Community Right to Know Act," P.L.1983, c.315 (C.34:5A-1 et seq.) with respect to workers supplied by the labor contractor. A waiver of the provisions of this section is contrary to public policy, and is void and unenforceable.

b. This section shall not be interpreted as:

(1) imposing individual liability on a homeowner for labor or services received at the home or the owner of a home-based business for labor or services received at the home; or

(2) restricting or limiting the rights of a client employer to recover from a labor contractor any expense to the client employer, or the rights of a labor contractor to recover from a client employer any expense to the labor contractor, resulting from any violation by the labor contractor or client employer of the provisions of State wage and hour laws or of section 10 of P.L.1999, c.90 (C.2C:40A-2), or restricting or limiting the provisions in contracts between client employers and labor contractors regarding the recovery of expenses pursuant to this paragraph.

c. As used in this section:

"Client employer" means a business entity, regardless of its form, that obtains or is provided workers, directly from a labor contractor or indirectly from a subcontractor, to perform labor or services within its usual course of business.

"Labor contractor" means any individual or entity that supplies, either with or without a contract, directly or indirectly, a client employer with workers to perform labor or services within the client employer's usual course of business, except that "labor contractor" does not include a bona fide labor organization or apprenticeship program, or a hiring hall operated pursuant to a collective bargaining agreement.

"Usual course of business" means the regular and customary work of a business, performed within or upon the premises or worksite of the client employer, or any other place of business of the client employer for which services or labor are performed.

20. R.S.43:21-5 is amended to read as follows:

43:21-5. An individual shall be disqualified for benefits:

(a) For the week in which the individual has left work voluntarily without good cause attributable to such work, and for each week thereafter until the individual becomes reemployed and works eight weeks in employment, which may include employment for the federal government, and has earned in employment at least ten times the individual's weekly benefit rate, as determined in each case. This subsection shall apply to any individual seeking unemployment benefits on the basis of employment in the production and harvesting of agricultural crops, including any individual who was employed in the production and harvesting of agricultural crops on a contract basis and who has refused an offer of continuing work with that employer following the completion of the minimum period of work required to fulfill the contract. This subsection shall not apply to an individual who voluntarily leaves work with one employer to accept from another employer employment which commences not more than seven days after the individual leaves employment with the first employer, if the employment with the second employer has weekly hours or pay not less than the hours or pay of the employment of the first employer, except that if the individual gives notice to the first employer that the individual will leave employment on a specified date and the first employer terminates the individual before that date, the seven-day period will commence from the specified date.

(b) For the week in which the individual has been suspended or discharged for misconduct connected with the work, and for the five weeks which immediately follow that week, as determined in each case.

"Misconduct" means conduct which is improper, intentional, connected with the individual's work, within the individual's control, not a good faith error of judgment or discretion, and is either a deliberate refusal, without good cause, to comply with the employer's lawful and reasonable rules made known to the employee or a deliberate disregard of standards of behavior the employer has a reasonable right to expect, including reasonable safety standards and reasonable standards for a workplace free of drug and substance abuse.

In the event the discharge should be rescinded by the employer voluntarily or as a result of mediation or arbitration, this subsection (b) shall not apply, provided, however, an individual who is restored to employment with back pay shall return any benefits received under this chapter for any week of unemployment for which the individual is subsequently compensated by the employer.

If the discharge was for gross misconduct connected with the work because of the commission of an act punishable as a crime of the first, second, third or fourth degree under the "New Jersey Code of Criminal Justice," N.J.S.2C:1-1 et seq., the individual shall be disqualified in accordance with the disqualification prescribed in subsection (a) of this section and no benefit rights shall accrue to any individual based upon wages from that employer for services rendered prior to the day upon which the individual was discharged.

The director shall insure that any appeal of a determination holding the individual disqualified for gross misconduct in connection with the work shall be expeditiously processed by the appeal tribunal.

To sustain disqualification from benefits because of misconduct under this subsection (b), the burden of proof is upon the employer, who shall, prior to a determination by the department of misconduct, provide written documentation demonstrating that the employee's actions constitute misconduct or gross misconduct.

Nothing within this subsection (b) shall be construed to interfere with the exercise of rights protected under the "National Labor Relations Act," (29 U.S.C. s.151 et seq.) or the "New Jersey Employer-Employee Relations Act," P.L.1941, c.100 (C.34:13A-1 et seq.).

(c) If it is found that the individual has failed, without good cause, either to apply for available, suitable work when so directed by the employment office or the director or to accept suitable work when it is offered, or to return to the individual's customary self-employment (if any) when so directed by the director. The disqualification shall continue for the week in which the failure occurred and for the three weeks which immediately follow that week, as determined:

(1) In determining whether or not any work is suitable for an individual, consideration shall be given to the degree of risk involved to health, safety, and morals, the individual's physical fitness and prior training, experience and prior earnings, the individual's length of unemployment and prospects for securing local work in the individual's customary occupation, and the distance of the available work from the individual's residence. In the case of work in the production and harvesting of agricultural crops, the work shall be deemed to be suitable without regard to the distance of the available work from the individual's residence if all costs of transportation are provided to the individual and the terms and conditions of hire are as favorable or more favorable to the individual as the terms and conditions of the individual's base year employment.

(2) Notwithstanding any other provisions of this chapter, no work shall be deemed suitable and benefits shall not be denied under this chapter to any otherwise eligible individual for refusing to accept new work under any of the following conditions: the position offered is vacant due directly to a strike, lockout, or other labor dispute; the remuneration, hours, or other conditions of the work offered are substantially less favorable to the individual than those prevailing for similar work in the locality; or, the individual, as a condition of being employed, would be required to join a company union or to resign from or refrain from joining any bona fide labor organization.

(d) If it is found that this unemployment is due to a stoppage of work which exists because of a labor dispute at the factory, establishment or other premises at which the individual is or was last employed, except as otherwise provided by this subsection (d).

(1) No disqualification under this subsection (d) shall apply if it is shown that:

(a) The individual is not participating in or financing or directly interested in the labor dispute which caused the stoppage of work; and

(b) The individual does not belong to a grade or class of workers of which, immediately before the commencement of the stoppage, there were members employed at the premises at which the stoppage occurs, any of whom are participating in or financing or directly interested in the dispute; provided that if in any case in which (a) or (b) above applies, separate branches of work which are commonly conducted as separate businesses in separate premises are conducted in separate departments of the same premises, each department shall, for the purpose of this subsection, be deemed to be a separate factory, establishment, or other premises.

(2) For any claim for a period of unemployment commencing on or after December 1, 2004, no disqualification under this subsection (d) shall apply if it is shown that the individual has been prevented from working by the employer, even though the individual's recognized or certified majority representative has directed the employees in the individual's collective bargaining unit to work under the preexisting terms and conditions of employment, and the employees had not engaged in a strike immediately before being prevented from working.

(3) For any claim for a period of unemployment commencing on or after July 1, 2018, no disqualification under this subsection (d) shall apply if the labor dispute is caused by the failure or refusal of the employer to comply with an agreement or contract between the employer and the claimant, including a collective bargaining agreement with a union representing the claimant, or a State or federal law pertaining to hours, wages, or other conditions of work.

(4) For any claim for a period of unemployment commencing on or after July 1, 2018, if the unemployment is caused by a labor dispute, including a strike or other concerted activities of employees at the claimant's workplace, whether or not authorized or sanctioned by a union representing the claimant, but not including a dispute subject to the provisions of paragraph (2) or (3) of this subsection (d), the claimant shall not be provided benefits for a period of the first 30 days following the commencement of the unemployment caused by the labor dispute, except that the period without benefits shall not apply if the employer hires a permanent replacement worker for the claimant's position. A replacement worker shall be presumed to be permanent unless the employer certifies in writing that the claimant will be permitted to return to his or her prior position upon conclusion of the dispute. If the employer does not permit the return, the claimant shall be entitled to recover any benefits lost as a result of the 30-day waiting period before receiving benefits, and the department may impose a penalty upon the employer of up to $750 per employee per week of benefits lost. The penalty collected shall be paid into the unemployment compensation auxiliary fund established pursuant to subsection (g) of R.S.43:21-14.

(e) For any week with respect to which the individual is receiving or has received remuneration in lieu of notice.

(f) For any week with respect to which or a part of which the individual has received or is seeking unemployment benefits under an unemployment compensation law of any other state or of the United States; provided that if the appropriate agency of the other state or of the United States finally determines that the individual is not entitled to unemployment benefits, this disqualification shall not apply.

(g) (1) For a period of one year from the date of the discovery by the division of the illegal receipt or attempted receipt of benefits contrary to the provisions of this chapter, as the result of any false or fraudulent representation; provided that any disqualification may be appealed in the same manner as any other disqualification imposed hereunder; and provided further that a conviction in the courts of this State arising out of the illegal receipt or attempted receipt of these benefits in any proceeding instituted against the individual under the provisions of this chapter or any other law of this State shall be conclusive upon the appeals tribunal and the board of review.

(2) A disqualification under this subsection shall not preclude the prosecution of any civil, criminal or administrative action or proceeding to enforce other provisions of this chapter for the assessment and collection of penalties or the refund of any amounts collected as benefits under the provisions of R.S.43:21-16, or to enforce any other law, where an individual obtains or attempts to obtain by theft or robbery or false statements or representations any money from any fund created or established under this chapter or any negotiable or nonnegotiable instrument for the payment of money from these funds, or to recover money erroneously or illegally obtained by an individual from any fund created or established under this chapter.

(h) (1) Notwithstanding any other provisions of this chapter (R.S.43:21-1 et seq.), no otherwise eligible individual shall be denied benefits for any week because the individual is in training approved under section 236(a)(1) of the "Trade Act of 1974," Pub.L.93-618 (19 U.S.C. s.2296 (a)(1)) nor shall the individual be denied benefits by reason of leaving work to enter this training, provided the work left is not suitable employment, or because of the application to any week in training of provisions in this chapter (R.S.43:21-1 et seq.), or any applicable federal unemployment compensation law, relating to availability for work, active search for work, or refusal to accept work.

(2) For purposes of this subsection (h), the term "suitable" employment means, with respect to an individual, work of a substantially equal or higher skill level than the individual's past adversely affected employment, as defined for purposes of the "Trade Act of 1974," Pub.L.93-618 (19 U.S.C. s.2101 et seq.) and wages for this work at not less than 80% of the individual's average weekly wage, as determined for the purposes of the "Trade Act of 1974."

(i) For benefit years commencing after June 30, 1984, for any week in which the individual is a student in full attendance at, or on vacation from, an educational institution, as defined in subsection (y) of R.S.43:21-19; except that this subsection shall not apply to any individual attending a training program approved by the division to enhance the individual's employment opportunities, as defined under subsection (c) of R.S.43:21-4; nor shall this subsection apply to any individual who, during the individual's base year, earned sufficient wages, as defined under subsection (e) of R.S.43:21-4, while attending an educational institution during periods other than established and customary vacation periods or holiday recesses at the educational institution, to establish a claim for benefits. For purposes of this subsection, an individual shall be treated as a full-time student for any period:

(1) During which the individual is enrolled as a full-time student at an educational institution, or

(2) Which is between academic years or terms, if the individual was enrolled as a full-time student at an educational institution for the immediately preceding academic year or term.

(j) Notwithstanding any other provisions of this chapter (R.S.43:21-1 et seq.), no otherwise eligible individual shall be denied benefits because the individual left work or was discharged due to circumstances resulting from the individual being a victim of domestic violence as defined in section 3 of P.L.1991, c.261 (C.2C:25-19). No employer's account shall be charged for the payment of benefits to an individual who left work due to circumstances resulting from the individual being a victim of domestic violence.

For the purposes of this subsection (j), the individual shall be treated as being a victim of domestic violence if the individual provides one or more of the following:

(1) A restraining order or other documentation of equitable relief issued by a court of competent jurisdiction;

(2) A police record documenting the domestic violence;

(3) Documentation that the perpetrator of the domestic violence has been convicted of one or more of the offenses enumerated in section 3 of P.L.1991, c.261 (C.2C:25-19);

(4) Medical documentation of the domestic violence;

(5) Certification from a certified Domestic Violence Specialist or the director of a designated domestic violence agency that the individual is a victim of domestic violence; or

(6) Other documentation or certification of the domestic violence provided by a social worker, member of the clergy, shelter worker or other professional who has assisted the individual in dealing with the domestic violence.

For the purposes of this subsection (j):

"Certified Domestic Violence Specialist" means a person who has fulfilled the requirements of certification as a Domestic Violence Specialist established by the New Jersey Association of Domestic Violence Professionals; and "designated domestic violence agency" means a county-wide organization with a primary purpose to provide services to victims of domestic violence, and which provides services that conform to the core domestic violence services profile as defined by the Division of Youth and Family Services in the Department of Children and Families and is under contract with the division for the express purpose of providing such services.

(k) Notwithstanding any other provisions of this chapter (R.S.43:21-1 et seq.), no otherwise eligible individual shall be denied benefits for any week in which the individual left work voluntarily and without good cause attributable to the work, if the individual left work to accompany his or her spouse who is an active member of the United States Armed Forces, as defined in N.J.S.38A:1-1(g), to a new place of residence outside the State, due to the armed forces member's transfer to a new assignment in a different geographical location outside the State, and the individual moves to the new place of residence not more than nine months after the spouse is transferred, and upon arrival at the new place of residence the individual was in all respects available for suitable work. No employer's account shall be charged for the payment of benefits to an individual who left work under the circumstances contained in this subsection (k), except that this shall not be construed as relieving the State of New Jersey and any other governmental entity or instrumentality or nonprofit organization electing or required to make payments in lieu of contributions from its responsibility to make all benefit payments otherwise required by law and from being charged for those benefits as otherwise required by law.

(l) Notwithstanding any other provisions of this chapter (R.S.43:21-1 et seq.), no disqualification shall be imposed if the individual establishes to the satisfaction of the commissioner that the reason for the individual's separation was due to the employer's failure to comply with any provision of P.L. , c. (C.)(pending before the Legislature as this bill), or due to a significant change to the employee's work schedule due to changes in the employer's business needs.
